

WEIHRAUCH HW110 T LAMINATE

FROM £1,150 • WEIHRAUCH.CO.UK

The Weihrauch HW110T Laminata is a regulated PCP air rifle known for its German engineering, high build quality and performance derived from Weihrauch's own precision-rifled barrel. The rifle uses extensive ballistic polymer in the receiver, trigger guard and action, distinguishing it from the HW100 series while maintaining a robust and precise feel. It is available in a standard length action, with a carbine (KT) version also offered.

The rifle is supplied with Weihrauch's benchmark silencer, which is remarkably light 3.5oz and uses a multi-baffle system for a highly muted shot. The most significant feature of this version is the new adjustable laminate stock. This furniture allows for comprehensive fitting, with both the height of the rubber butt pad and the height/ position of the cheekpiece fully adjustable. The cheekpiece uses a clever serrated pillar bolt and push-button system, allowing tools-free height adjustment up to 1.8 inches, significantly enhancing both handling and versatility.

The stock design includes perfectly applied stippling on the forend and raked pistol grip. The action is charged via a traditional probe system through an inlet valve at the front of the cylinder, with a maximum fill pressure of 200 bar. A manometer is fitted in the cylinder front for pressure monitoring. The HW110T operates using a smooth side-lever action and a simple, reliable 10-shot cast magazine. The all-in-one polymer receiver includes a continuous Picatinny rail for scope mounting and fully contains the magazine within the action. Elsewhere, shots are released via the renowned Weihrauch two-stage adjustable match trigger.

Performance testing by Mark Camoccio in our sister title GunMart showed excellent consistency and accuracy. From a 200 bar fill, the rifle delivered 105 shots with a total velocity spread of 24fps, proving the efficiency of the regulated action. Accuracy was high, with the rifle capable of producing consistent 1/4in c-t-c groups at 40 yards with preferred ammunition. The HW110T Laminata is positioned as a modern, versatile, top-class sporting and hunting machine. ■

The platform offers two primary models tailored for different shooting needs. The DRS Classic is a lightweight, easy-to-carry hunting companion, available with either a durable synthetic or a timeless Minelli walnut stock. It features an adjustable trigger and an 11mm dovetail rail, balancing modern performance with traditional rifle features. It is equipped with the latest AMP regulator to ensure unrivaled consistency in velocity.

For the precision shooter, the DRS Pro sets a new standard. Built on a robust MDT chassis, it is designed to compete directly with .22lr firearms in competitions like PRS and NRL. The Pro model comes fully equipped with a true match-grade trigger, a 30 MOA Picatinny rail, a high-power plenum, and a heavy liner system. Capable of delivering significant energy (up to 73 ft/lb in .25 calibre), the Pro maintains its performance through the advanced adjustable AMP regulator, making it a powerful and accurate force on the firing line.
